MATRIMONIAL.

—A brilliant wedding of Wednesday evening was that of Miss Matilda Alexander and Mr. Buckner Woodford, Jr., which was solemnized at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Francis J. Cheek, of Louisville, the bride's former pastor, officiating with a very beautiful and impressive ceremony.

The church decorations, which were done by Cincinnati florists, were very elaborate and beautiful in the Easter colors, green and white. The choir loft and rostrum were banked with graceful ferns, palms and rubber plants, with here and there vases of tall Easter lilies and bunches of fragrant plum blossoms. This was lighted with white lights and cathedral candles, which made a becoming background for the wedding party.

Miss Frances Johnson played the wedding music which was a program of fitting selections, during the assembling of the guests. "I Love You Truly" was played at the approach of the bridal party which entered the church in the following manner: From the center aisle came Mr. James Buckner and Mr. Chenault Woodford, of Mt. Sterling, then Mr. Woodford Buckner and Dr. Ben Frank, of New York. Following were Mr. Clarence Thomas and Mr. Catesby Spears. From the right aisle came the bridegroom with his best man, his father, Mr. Buckner Woodford, Sr.

Simultaneously from the center aisle came the bride with her dame of honor, her sister, Mrs. Ulie J. Howard, of Covington. Meeting at the altar forming a semi-circle, where the ceremony was said.

The bride is petite with lovely auburn brown hair which waves naturally. Her gown was a beautiful Parisian creation of embroidered chiffon over soft crystal satin was made on the empire lines with panels of hand embroidery in graceful sprays of wheat. The bodice was fashioned low with bertha and yoke of exquisite point lace which was worn by the bride's mother when she was the beautiful Miss Belle Brent. The bride's veil, which was bordered with point lace, was fastened in the hair with sprays of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Mrs. Howard, the dame of honor, is of the same type as the bride and the sisters' likeness is very striking. Mrs. Howard wore a magnificent imported lace robe embroidered in clusters of rosebuds made of satin, over white messaline with bodice of crystal lace made with Dutch neck. She carried a bouquet of Catherine Mermet roses.

Mrs. Owen Davis was handsome in a lovely gown of black voile elaborately trimmed with jet. Mrs. Alexander, the bride's mother, was beautiful in a black satin gown veiled in net.

After the wedding a charming reception was given Mr. and Mrs. Woodford by the bride's mother, Mrs. Charlton Alexander at her lovely home on South Main street. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Woodford, Mrs. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ulie Howard. The house with its exquisite furnishing was more beautiful in its decorations of gorgeous pink hydrangeas, white spirea, pink and white carnations and Easter lilies. The hall was banked with plants, the stairway was garlanded with French asparagus while graceful bouquets of Easter lilies, tied with soft bows of white decorated the newel.

The drawing room was lavish in its decorations of hanging baskets and wall vases of pink hydrangeas and pink and white carnations.

The bride's table was in the dining room and was beautiful in the wedding colors. The table was round and wore an exquisite lace cover. In the center of this was a huge gold basket of pink roses. Surrounding this were silver candlesticks with white candles, also silver baskets holding pink and white confections. The dining room was decorated in pink and white carnations.

The guests numbered about one hundred and fifty and were served at small tables in the drawing room, parlors and halls and on the piazza, which was enclosed in canvas and profusely decorated with palms, ferns and hanging baskets and wall vases filled with carnations in pink and white. It was lighted with electric lights with Japanese shades.

A delicious course supper was served by the St. Nicholas Hotel, of Cincinnati. During the reception hours Schmitt's orchestra played a program of delightful music.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Woodford left for an extended wedding journey through the west and upon their return they will go to housekeeping in the handsome home on Tenth and Main.

The presents were displayed in the third story and numbered several hundred. In the collection were exquisite pieces of silver, rock crystal, Dresden and Coalport china, Oriental rugs and brass. The gift of the bride's mother was a case of handsome silver of the Georgian pattern.

The gift of the groom's father was several dozen pieces of elegant flat silver.

The out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Hon. and Mrs. R. P. Ernst, Miss Sarah Ernst, Miss Emily Woodall, Mr. Frank Woodall, Mr. Perah Coke, Hon. and Mrs. Harvey Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Ulie J. Howard and Charlton Alexander Howard, of Covington; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brent and Miss Nichollette Belle Brent, of Lexington; Miss Ethel Thomas and Miss Clay Croxton, Mr. Walton Rounsavall, of Winchester; Mrs. Gibson Taylor, of Tucson, Arizona; Hon. Rhodes Shackelford, Mr. Tutt Burnham, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. William Gay, Mr. Chenault Woodford, Mt. Sterling; Mrs. Harold Stillwell, of Hannibal, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gay, and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hamilton, of Mt. Sterling.
